If answer to B-010-3 was 1, go to B-010-4. Otherwise, go to B-011.

B-010-4. This is the last calculation problem. Suppose you have 2000 yen in a savings account. If the account earns 10% interest per year, how much would you have after two years?

[Interviewer: Do not read the answers. Select respondent's answer from the following choices. If respondent asks questions such as "What is interest?" or "Is there interest in the first year?" you may give explanations such as "Interest is..." or "Interest does accrue in the first year."]

1. 2420 yen
2. 2020 yen
3. 2100 yen
4. 2200 yen
5. 2400 yen
6. Other answer
7. Don't know
8. Refused to answer

Regardless of answer, go to B-011.

B-011. Thank you. Please try to remember the words I read to you earlier, and repeat any of them you can remember.

[Interviewer: Even if respondent cannot remember, please wait about one minute for him or her to try to remember the words. The order of the words is not important. Indicate below which words respondent could remember. If respondent takes more than one minute to answer, say "Thank you," and continue to the next question.]

[If respondent stops in the middle of his or her answer, place a check next to the words respondent was able to remember and also next to "Could not answer after trying for one minute or more."]

Dog	Knife	Train	Baseball	Cat	Refused to answer after starting	Could not answer after trying for one minute or more

2. No

Regardless of answer, go to B-013.

B-013. Thank you very much. Next, I would like to play four brain games. May I continue?

1. Yes
2. Refused to answer

If answer to B-013 is 1, go to B-014-1; if answer is 2, go to B-018.

B-014-1. [Interviewer: Ask question after showing cards B-014.]

The first game is about receiving pay. If the method by which you are paid at work were to change next month only, which of the following options would you prefer? Please assume that the amount your pay increases is not related to your ability or effort, and that this change will be in effect for next month only. [Interviewer: If respondent says “I don’t work, so I can’t answer this question,” or “My company would not offer these choices,” please urge them to answer by using statements like the ones shown below. Also, show the choices one by one, beginning from the top, rather than revealing the whole card to the respondent at one time.

[If respondent refuses to answer at any point, enter choice 2 for that question and move on to the next question.]

This question is not related to whether you are actually working, or whether this would actually happen at the company you work at. This is just a hypothetical question, like a quiz, so could you please try to answer in that spirit?

1. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 50%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If answer to B-014-1 is 1, go to B-014-2; if 2, go to B-015-1.

B-014-2. [Interviewer: Ask question after showing card B-014.]

Which of these would you prefer?

1. There is a 90% probability that your pay would increase by 50%, and a 10% probability that your pay would increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay would increase by 10%

If answer to B-014-2 is 1, go to B-014-3; if 2, go to B-015-1.

B-017-1. [Interviewer: Ask question after showing card B-017-1.]

Imagine you have won first prize in a lottery. You must choose one of two options for your prize. The first option will be one million yen worth of gift certificates, which must be used within the next six months. Once the expiration date is past, the gift certificates are worthless. The gift certificates may be used for any purchase at any store in Japan, but they may not be exchanged for cash.

The second option is a given amount of gift certificates, which you will receive every year from now on. These gift certificates have no expiration date, and may be used for any purchase at any store in Japan, but may not be exchanged for cash. There is no chance that you will lose this benefit in the future.

Please choose from the following combinations.

[Interviewer: Show the choices one by one, beginning from the top, rather than revealing the whole card to the respondent at one time.]

[If respondent refuses to answer at any point, enter choice 2 for that question and move on to the next question.]
