EX. Exit Interview

11EX-0:

[To the interviewer: Read out the following statement.]

[Interviewer read-out: Mr./Mrs./Miss _____ (subject person) cooperated with our survey in _____ / _____ (month/year). Thanks to his/her cooperation, we were able to obtain valuable information that helps us to understand how people's income, employment status, and family relationships relate to their health status, providing important implications for social security policy making in the future. On behalf of our research team, I would like to give our thanks again for his/her cooperation and extend our sincere condolences for his/her death. Would you mind telling us about the cause of his/her death and his/her health status prior to it? A comparison of such information with that obtained in our last survey would provide data that would help improve medical and nursing care programs for the elderly.]

Regardless of the answer, go to 11G-037.

11G-037:

[To the interviewer: Read out the following statement and select the appropriate option to indicate who answered the questions in this section. "Proxy" here refers to the respondent's son/daughter or caregiver.]

[Interviewer read-out: This concludes this section. Thank you for your cooperation.]

1. Respondent only
2. Respondent and his/her spouse
3. Respondent's spouse only
4. Respondent and his/her proxy (not including spouse)
5. Respondent's spouse and proxy
6. Respondent's proxy (not including spouse)

Regardless of the choice, go to 11B-013.

B. Memory, Cognitive Ability, and Hypothetical Questions

11B-013:

Thank you very much. Next, I would like for you to play four brain games. Can we begin?

1. Yes
2. No

If the answer to 11B-013 is 1, go to 11B-014-1; if 2, go to 11B-018.

11B-014-1:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-1. If the respondent says that he/she cannot answer because he/she is not working, or that his/her employer would not make such an offer, ask him/her to cooperate by reading out the statement shown below. Show each set of options one by one—not all at once—in the designated order. If the respondent refuses to answer in the middle of the game session, take note of the question number and select 2 as the choice for that question and move on to the next question.]

[Interviewer read-out: This is just a hypothetical question and not related to your real life. So it does not matter whether you are actually working, or whether your employer would actually make such an offer. Could you please try to answer this just as if you were answering a quiz question?]

The first game is about choosing the way you receive your salary. Suppose you are offered two options from which to choose. Assuming that whichever option selected is effective only for the following month and that whether the proposed pay increase will be actually made is not affected by your performance, which of the following options would you prefer?

1. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 50%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-1 is 1, go to 11B-014-2; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-2:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-2 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 90% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 10% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-2 is 1, go to 11B-014-3; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-3:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-3 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are an 80% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 20% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-3 is 1, go to 11B-014-4; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-4:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-4 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 70% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 30% probability that your pay will increase by 5%

2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-4 is 1, go to 11B-014-5; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-5:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-5 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 60% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 40% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-5 is 1, go to 11B-014-6; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-6:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-6 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 50% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 50% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-6 is 1, go to 11B-014-7; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-7:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-7 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 40% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 60% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-7 is 1, go to 11B-014-8; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-8:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-8 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 30% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 70% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-8 is 1, go to 11B-014-9; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-9:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-9 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 20% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and an 80% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-9 is 1, go to 11B-014-10; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-10:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-10 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 10% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 90% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

If the choice in 11B-014-10 is 1, go to 11B-014-11; if 2, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-014-11:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-014-11 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 10%

Regardless of the choice, go to 11B-015-1.

11B-015-1:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-015-1. Show each set of options one by one—not all at once—in the designated order. If the respondent refuses to answer in the middle of the game session, take note of the question number and select 2 as the choice for that question and move on to the next question.]

I would like for you to play another session of the game with slightly different figures. Again, suppose you are offered two options from which to choose. Assuming that whichever option selected is effective only for the following month and that whether the proposed pay increase will be actually made is not affected by your performance, which of the following options would you prefer?

1. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 50%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 20%

If the choice in 11B-015-1 is 1, go to 11B-015-2; if 2, go to 11B-016-0.

11B-015-2:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-015-2 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 90% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 10% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 20%

If the choice in 11B-015-2 is 1, go to 11B-015-3; if 2, go to 11B-016-0.

11B-015-3:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-015-3 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are an 80% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 20% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 20%

If the choice in 11B-015-3 is 1, go to 11B-015-4; if 2, go to 11B-016-0.

11B-015-4:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-015-4 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 70% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 30% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 20%

If the choice in 11B-015-4 is 1, go to 11B-015-5; if 2, go to 11B-016-0.

11B-015-5:

[To the interviewer: Show Card 11B-015-5 in asking the following question.]

What if the options are as follows?

1. There are a 60% probability that your pay will increase by 50%, and a 40% probability that your pay will increase by 5%
2. There is a 100% probability that your pay will increase by 20%

If the choice in 11B-015-5 is 1, go to 11B-015-6; if 2, go to 11B-016-0.

Thank you. I will now go on to the next question. I will ask you to choose between two options: receiving one million yen one month from today, or receiving it or a greater sum 13 months from today depending on the options offered. Assuming that there is no risk of failing to receive whichever sum chosen, which of the following options would you prefer?

1. Receive one million yen one month from today
2. Receive one million yen 13 months from today (Difference being equivalent to interest at the rate of 0%)

If the choice in 11B-016-1a is 1, go to 11B-016-2a; if 2, go to 11B-016-1b or 11B-017-1 as appropriate depending on the order generated in 11B-016-0.

Now I would like to ask you to play just one more game. Suppose you won a lottery and are offered a choice between two prize options. The first option is a lump sum reward of 100,000 yen in gift cards valid for the next six months. The gift cards can be used for purchases or payments at any store in Japan but cannot be redeemed for cash. The other option is to receive gift cards worth a certain amount of money every year for life. Unlike those to be given in the first option, these gift cards have no expiry date. All of the other terms and conditions are same, i.e., usable for purchases or payments at any store in Japan but not redeemable for cash. Assuming that there is no risk of failing to receive whichever reward selected, which of the following options would you prefer?
